Since 2010, the EU has taken significant steps to combat illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing, and its policies and laws are arguably amongst the most comprehensive and effective worldwide.

However, IUU fishing still poses serious social, economic and environmental threats, and multilateral action is needed to put an end to these.

The event is an opportunity to discuss key challenges associated with combatting IUU fishing and how to address these, as well as how to maintain the EU's leadership in the global fight against IUU fishing in the coming years.
